

ensemble

BASILISK

Formed at the Schola Cantorum Basiliensis, Ensemble Basilisk unites musicians drawn to the expressive potential of medieval music and its contemporary resonance. Their work combines historically informed performance with a spirit of experimentation, exploring the unique colours and textures of instruments such as the bray harp, clavicymbalum, organetto, recorder, bowed vielle and voice.

Basilisk seeks to marry rigorous historical awareness with creative, narrative-driven programming, crafting concert experiences that interlace music, history, and storytelling. Each project invites the listener into a world where sound becomes both research and invention, where precision meets imagination, and the past is re-heard through a living, poetic lens.

The ensemble's namesake, the mythical Basilisk, captures this duality: sinuous, vibrant, and unpredictable, a symbol of transformation and intensity. Rooted in the spirit of the Mundus Inversus, where the sacred encounters the grotesque, and beauty emerges from contrast, Basilisk reimagines early music as a space of curiosity, vitality, and presence.

The ensemble's debut programme, "The Braying Harp", was premiered last summer at the "Musica Divina" Festival in Poland.

Ula Kinder, vielle
Daniel Scott, organetto, clavicymbalum, recorder
Michela Amici, brey harp, medieval harp
Ivana Ivanović, voice, organetto

Ūla Kinder is a vielle and Baroque violin player, who performs regularly as a soloist and a member of many prominent groups throughout the US and Europe. They have toured extensively, played live for WQXR and BBC Radio 3 broadcasts and performed in many international music festivals, including Boston Early Music Festival, Bachfest Leipzig and Lucerne Festival. In 2018 they performed on Broadway at the Belasco Theater for the award-winning Globe Theater 'Farinelli and the King' production.

Ūla is a graduate of the Juilliard School and the Royal Academy of Music, having studied with Nicolette Moonen & Rachel Podger. They had the pleasure to work with some of the most notable musicians in the early music world, including Masaaki Suzuki, William Christie, Laurence Cummings & Ton Koopman. Ula is currently continuing their studies with prof. Baptiste Romain at Schola Cantorum Basiliensis.

Daniel Scott is a recorder and early keyboard player specializing in medieval, renaissance and contemporary music. He is currently studying a masters in medieval and renaissance keyboards at the Schola Cantorum Basiliensis (CH). He completed his masters in Recorder at the Conservatorium van Amsterdam in 2021 and won First Prize in the Wind Brass and Percussion section of the Royal Overseas League Music Competition (UK) in 2022. Daniel has as a passion queer medieval studies and his programme 'Polyphonic Perversities: Queer Music from 12th Century Notre Dame' was presented at QueerCon conference, Maastricht University 2024.

Daniel is a founding member and artistic lead of Rune, a UK based medieval music ensemble. Rune has played at early music festivals throughout the UK and in 2026 they will be artists in residence at St Bartholomew the Great's Church, London. Daniel is also a member of The Royal Wind Music (NL), a renaissance recorder ensemble with whom he has recorded two CDs and performs regularly. Daniel is also a regular guest artist with Luther's Bach Ensemble, Seldom Sene recorder quintet, and Block4. 'The Eternal Feminine' was an interdisciplinary performance Daniel co developed which won the 'cross-over prize' at Amsterdam's Grachten Festival 2022.

Michela Amici studied modern and historical harps at the Conservatory G. Rossini of Pesaro (IT) and the Royal Conservatoire of The Hague (NL). Her teachers include Ernestine Stoop and Christina Pluhar.

Currently she is attending a Specialized Master in Historical Harps at the Schola Cantorum Basiliensis (CH) in the class of Flora Papadopoulos.

Recent performances as soloist and with her ensembles include international festivals such as Dutch Harp Festival, World Harp Congress, Grachten Festival, November Music, Ravenna Festival, Musica Antica Den Haag and Festiwal Rezonanse. In 2022 she was artist in residency at the Dutch festivals Gaudeamus (Nieuwe Noten) and Grachtenfestival (Nieuwe Makers).

As basso continuo player, she performed with ensembles led by Richard Egarr, Alessandro Quarta, Adrián Rodríguez van der Spoel, Tineke Steenbrink and Leonard Evers, among others.

Ivana Sofia Ivanović, mezzo-soprano, began her vocal training as a member of the Chœur des Jeunes at the Conservatoire de Bordeaux, where she took part in numerous opera productions at the Opéra de Bordeaux. After studying harpsichord and earning a diploma in choral conducting from the Conservatoire of Rueil-Malmaison, she completed a Master's degree in Musicology and a Master's degree in French Literature at the Sorbonne and University of Bordeaux.

Specializing in Renaissance singing under Véronique Bourin at the Conservatoire of Tours, Ivana Ivanovic went on to obtain a Master's degree in Medieval and Renaissance vocal performance from the Schola Cantorum Basiliensis, studying with Katarina Livljanić and Medieval keyboards as a second instrument with Corina Marti. She is currently continuing her studies there in vocal pedagogy.

Based in Basel, she founded the professional vocal ensemble KIMA, conducts several choirs in Switzerland, and regularly leads workshops for singers and choirs in France. As a soloist, she performs mainly with early music ensembles such as Le Miroir de Musique, Sollazzo, Peregrina, La Morra and continually seeks new forms of artistic expression.

«MUNDUS INVERSUS»

The Mundus Inversus (the world turned upside down) is a medieval image of subversion and insight: a mirror held up to society, where hierarchies collapse, folly unmasks reason, and satire brushes against prayer.

This programme explores that inversion through works from the 13th to the 15th centuries, from the Codex Buranus to the Roman de Fauvel, from Machaut to Solage and Ciconia.

Here, devotion and derision, the grotesque and the mystical, intertwine in a journey where the learned order of the Ars Nova gradually unravels under the breath of improvisation, dance, and popular song.

Ensemble Basilisk probes the boundary between scholarship and invention, between history and the living present of sound. The timbres of bray harp, clavicymbalum, organetto, voice and bowed vielle conjure a shifting landscape — rough, lyrical, and charged with resonance and silence.

Through this inverted world, music becomes an experience of listening and transformation — a theatre of shadows where the sacred meets the grotesque, and where beauty emerges from disorder.

Mundus Inversus - Programme

ORDER AND ITS VANITY

1. Hildegard von Bingen (1098–1179) O cruor sanguinis – 3'00
2. Guillaume de Machaut (c. 1300–1377) Amours me fait désirer – 2'30
3. Francesco Landini (c. 1335–1397) Contemprar le gran cose – 3'30
4. Guillaume de Machaut (c. 1300–1377) Je vivroie liement – 3'00
5. Jacopo da Bologna (fl. 1340–1360) O cieco mondo – 4'

THE WORLD UPSIDE DOWN

6. Codex Buranus (13th century) Florebat olim studium – 3' (improvisation)
7. Anonymous, Roman de Fauvel (14th century) Mundus a mundicia – 2'
8. Anonymous (14th century) Cosa non è ch'a sé tanto mi tiri – 3'30
9. Pierre des Molins (fl. mid-14th c.) De ce que fol pense – 5'
10. Solage (fl. 1350–1403) Pluseurs gens voy – 5'
11. Guillaume de Machaut (c. 1300–1377) O livoris feritas – 3'

TOWARDS LIGHT OR MADNESS

12. Oswald von Wolkenstein (c. 1377–1445) Es fügt sich – 7'
13. Johannes Ciconia (c. 1370–1412) Una Panthera – 5'
14. Anonymous, Faenza Codex (15th c.) Kyrie Cunctipotens Genitor Deus – 5'
15. Anonymous, Llibre Vermell de Montserrat (14th c.) Ad mortem festinamus – 4'
16. Anonymous, Llibre Vermell de Montserrat (14th c.) Stella splendens in monte – 3'

Duration : c.a 60'